Anza Teacher Has Article In Magazine

Mrs. Roxy Battles, teacher at Anza Elementary School, is among the contributors to The Instructor magazine, nationally-circulated publication used by 700,000 school teachers and educators.

Mrs. Battles has written an article titled, "Understandings of Democracy," which describes the development of a multi-grade project conducted with fourth, fifth, and sixth grade pupils.

An eight-day workshop included the study of various types of government, beginning with the family as the basic unit of government. Personal and family responsibilities at community, state, and national levels were discussed with the results listed by the pupils to show grasp of significant ideas as they relate to life in a democratic society.

The unit culminated with a "dramatic picture" of each type of government in action. Pupils concluded that the democratic form of government seemed to offer the greatest opportunities for the most people.

A graduate of Long Beach State University, Mrs. Battles spent 10 years as a magazine writer and homemaker before beginning her teaching career. She resides at 560 S. Helberta Ave., Redondo Beach.

Hi-Shear Backlog Orders In Excess of $1 Million

George S. Wing, president of Hi-Shear Corp., has announced fiscal nine-months operating results of this 20-year-old designer and producer of fastening systems.

For the nine months ended Nov. 30, 1962, sales totaled $4,550,317 and net income, after taxes, was $68,080, or $0.13 per share based on 515,340 common shares outstanding.

These results compared with sales of $4,272,119 and net income of $242,951, or $0.47 per share on the same number of shares for the nine months ended Nov. 30, 1961.

Wing attributed the decline in earnings largely to rising costs and increased expenses connected with greatly expanded facilities.

Commenting further, Wing stated, "With the recent additions to plant and personnel, we are now geared to a greatly increased production volume, and as production hits its new stride, we expect profits to improve substantially."

He pointed out that sales for the third quarter just ended showed a 17 per cent increase over sales for the previous quarter, and that this favorable trend could be expected to continue well into the future.

Furthermore, volume of new orders received continued at a high level and the backlog remained in excess of $1 million.

Youth Band Sets Concert
